“ I met Coleen and her mom as a fellow craftsman at all the Bazaars. I have numerous personalized ornaments that she carved. My favorite is the one she came up with for my marble collecting husband. It's Santa standing with his bag laying beside him with colorful marbles spilling out of it. It was perfect. I stopped doing craft shows but went just to see her and order an ornament for my newest grandchild at the time. I'm sorry I didn't see her in 4 years but I always thought fondly of her and mom. She had such a wonderful talent. I have missed our conversations. My sincere condolences. RIP Coleen.

“ Back in the 1990's several of us aspiring woodcarvers where in class with Coleen under the tutelage of Susan Hendrix. After Susan left the area, Coleen agreed to teach a woodcarving class for us at the old Cheshire school and then for many years in my basement and garage. I remember those carving nights. We were more of a therapy community sometimes but all looked forward to spending the time together. Our sympathy goes to Coleen's family. Though her health issues slowly diminished her ability to carve, her spirits were always high. Now she will join many of the other woodcarving greats that she considered true friends and is carving again in the great Woodcarving session in the beyond where your carving tools never need to be sharpened again.
